Proclamation Designates Boy Scout Week

EXAMINE PROCLAMATION—Dr. Carl E. Whipple, (seated), president of the Warren County Boy Scout Council, Scout Commissioner C. C. Winans, Cub Scout Don Taft, Jr., of East Street School Pack 48, and Boy Scout Raymond Tanguy, of Holy Redeemer Troop 10, read the Boy Scout Week Proclamation signed by Burgess William F. Crossett. (Times-Mirror Photo).

Warren Burgess William F. Crossett today signed a proclamation designating the week of February 6 through February 12 as Boy Scout Week and urged all citizens to recognize the Scouting movement for the patriotic service being rendered to our community.

The proclamation reads, as follows: "WHEREAS, February 8, 1951 is the 41st Anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scouts of America, chartered by the Congress of the United States, as a program for all the boys of America, and

"WHEREAS, the Boy Scout Program has affected the lives of 17,750,000 American boys and men since 1910, and now has an active enrollment of 2,750,000 and

"WHEREAS, the Movement is engaged in a Crusade to 'Strengthen the Arm of Liberty' by giving more boys a richer experience and increase its usefulness to the nation and

"WHEREAS, the Boy Scouts of America, a great force for training youth in right character and good citizenship, marks its 41st anniversary by a nation-wide clothing collection to meet emergency needs abroad, increased participation in Civil Defense and the promotion of the conservation of the nation's natural resources;

"NOW THEREFORE, I William F. Crossett, Burgess of the Borough of Warren in the State of Pennsylvania, do hereby proclaim the week of February 6th to 12th as Boy Scout Week and urge our citizens to recognize the patriotic volunteer service being rendered to our community by the volunteer Scout Leaders, and to help, in all possible ways, to further this wholesome youth program.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of the Borough of Warren to be affixed, this 29th day of January 1951.

Picture Produced By Highway Dep't Is Now Available

The "how, where, when, why" of the myriad "housekeeping" tasks performed by the Pennsylvania Department of Highways maintenance forces so that the 41,000-mile system will be in tip top condition at all times are described in "Men Working," a 16mm motion picture in sound and color now available to the public without charge.

The film with projector and operator may be secured by any school, college, civic, business, fraternal or other organization or group in Crawford, Erie, Forest, Mercer, Venango, Warren and Lawrence Counties by addressing a request with time and place it is desired to be shown to District Engineer Glenn D. Myers Box 711, Franklin, Pennsylvania. Telephone Franklin 365.

"Men Working" will give the motorist intimate knowledge of the tasks under way when this sign appears along the roadway.

Patching, resurfacing, drainage, sign posting, slope planting, mowing and center line painting are among the operations described.

"Pumping" operations by which sunken concrete slabs are raised to their former position through use of special equipment and an explanation and demonstration of bridge repairs including the task of sealing breaks in concrete are among the many other interesting operations pictured.

The movie also reveals that Pennsylvania's giant highway system ranks high in maintenance and among the lowest in cost largely because of the skill of its maintenance forces and the use of money saving equipment.

RELIEF DECREASE

According to the Department of Public Assistance, the net decrease in the number of cases on the public assistance rolls was 30,000. Although 200,000 applications for aid were received, only 110,000 cases were opened during the year, investigation screening out the remainder.

RECOVERING NICELY

Relatives have received word from Baltimore, Md., that Willard Timmis, Warren-Jamestown Road, is recovering nicely following a major operation at the Johns Hopkins Hospital in that city. His wife, Thelma, is in Baltimore with him, and the two expect to be home in two more weeks.

HOME STREET NEXT

City police will begin fingerprinting of students at Home street school this afternoon. Expectations are that the work will take about four days since there are 197 pupils to be printed. Acting Lt. Ray Eckardt and Officers John Imperial and Edgar Leonard will be in charge of the work. Home street pre-school mothers have also asked police to fingerprint pre-school children of the area, and plans now call for some of this work to be done Thursday afternoon.

IN KANE ACCIDENT

Kane Republican: No one was hurt Friday afternoon when a large tractor-trailer outfit "squeezed" a Buick sedan operated by Fred W. Shattuck, Jr., 19, of 212 Madison avenue, Warren, in a mishap at the Edgar-Biddle street intersection. The big outfit swung wide around the sharp corner and Shattuck hit the dual wheels on the left-rear of the trailer. Front of the sedan was damaged. The tractor-trailer, a new unit owned by Permatex, of Brooklyn, was reported not damaged. Patrolman C. G. Kelts investigated the accident.

FIRE CALLS

City firemen answered two calls over the week end, one resulting in considerable damage to an east side home. Shortly after noon on Saturday, equipment made a run to a duplex home at 407 Pennsylvania avenue, east, where attempts to thaw out frozen pipes with a blowtorch had started a fire inside the partition in the southeast corner of the structure. Firemen were forced to cut into the side of the house and use booster lines in order to stop the climb of the blaze. Damage was estimated at $500. The house is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. James Gorfida. At 12:45 a. m. Sunday, a faulty sprinkler system at Solar Electric caused an alarm. There was no damage and firemen shut off the system valves before returning to stations.

MAN'S WORST KILLER

February is the month devoted to the annual fund-raising campaign of the American Heart Association.

No one needs to be reminded that heart diseases are the leading cause of death in the United States. They account for upwards of 40 per cent of all deaths, outstripping the dreaded cancer by three to one.

This year, however it may be more fitting to focus on just one phase of this grave medical problem: its ravages among actual or prospective members of our armed forces.

During World War II, 317,500 men were rejected for military service because of heart ailments. This amounted to 3 1/2 per cent of all selective service registrants examined.

In addition, some 80,000 men either were given disability discharges from service or died in service as result of heart diseases in the war years.

These nearly 400,000 men would have been enough to man 27 infantry divisions at their World War II strength. That's equivalent to about a fifth of all the men we put into the Pacific theater.

The government figures that it cost $16,000 per case—or $640,000,000 in all—to handle the servicemen inactivated by heart disease during the war. The Navy estimates that it lost 4,000,000 man-days because of rheumatic fever and related rheumatic heart disease.

The shocking fact in all these statistics is that we are here talking about young men, not oldsters who might be expected to exhibit signs of declining health.

The military's experience in World War II may well be repeated in the current crisis. It's too early yet for any general figures. But the Pittsburgh Press, analyzing draft rejections in that area, reports that one out of every eight men turned down has an organic heart disturbance.

When we are trying to find sufficient able-bodied young men to man our expanding military establishment, we feel keenly the effect of such deep ravages in the nation's health. High rejection rates plague our top soldiers, and are a compelling factor in demands for broader draft laws which will assure us a really safe manpower backlog.

But the dilemma in this field is only a small part of the heart disease puzzle. In 1948, last year for which complete, accurate figures are available, almost 638,000 people died of this ailment in America. No medical man pretends the situation is improving.

Give as generously as you can to the heart campaign, in the sure knowledge that you are attacking man's worst killer.

A weekly news magazine reports that "the Army's bid for glamor, the new gray uniform, has been shelved for economy reasons." We wonder what artistic genius in the quartermaster Department decided that gray is the ideal color with which to make a bid for glamor. Gray, the color of fog. Gray, the color of depressing, storm-threatening skies. Gray, the hirsute symbol of old age and fading attractiveness. Gray, the shade of shadows. Gray, the perfect neutral. Does a gal become a Hollywood glamour-puss because she has a gray personality? In the rainbow, there's glamor—but there is no gray. Perhaps this is just one more bit of support for that ancient axiom: There are two ways of doing things—the right way and the Army way.

No Red Herring About This, Eh, Harry?

Here And There

From S. W. Jackson, who retired from the State Highway service as District Engineer December 1, we have received a copy of his annual report indicating the wild and domestic animals and birds killed by motor vehicles on highways in Engineering District No. 1, which covers the counties of Crawford, Erie, Forest, Lawrence, Mercer, Venango and Warren. According to the report a total of 2437 animals were killed on the highways of Warren county during 1950, and 273 birds. A break down of the figures makes an interesting study. It shows that during the year the following animals were killed: 1127 rabbits; 214 woodchucks; 53 squirrels; 203 skunks; 42 raccoons; 75 deer; 601 opossums; 2 weasels; 7 muskrats; 1 mink; 4 fox; 55 porcupines; 40 grouse; 9 ringneck pheasants; and 4 woodcock. The list for birds killed on the roads includes 15 chickens, 1 duck and 1 guinea fowl; domestic animals included 177 cats and 79 dogs. The grand total of animals and birds killed on highways in the seven-county district during the year follows: Rabbits, 11,367; woodchucks, 820; squirrels 302; skunks 1018; raccoons 279; deer 142; opossum 4705; weasels 37; muskrats 101; mink 5; fox 14; porcupine 141; grouse 118; quail 5; ringneck pheasant 589; woodcock 11; beaver 1; chickens 294; ducks 12; geese 1; turkeys 6; guinea fowl 4; cats 1874; dogs 1055; horses 4; pigs 6; total 3256. Concluding the letter which accompanied the very interesting report, Mr. Jackson says: "As I retired from the State Highway Service as district engineer December 1, I am pleased to have had a part in making this data available, as it not only stimulates more promptness on the part of the Department's maintenance forces in removing the dead bodies from the pavement surfaces, but such information is of particular value to the State Game Commission, Conservationists and Sportsmen. In addition, the economic loss to our state and county by this careless slaughter, warrants that the operators of motor vehicles give the animals and birds on our highways a better break than has been done in the past."

According to the report bear in the area have been most successful in dodging highway traffic.

Faithful Public Compliance Can Speed End of Controls

BY PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—To understand fully the seemingly tight wage and price freezes announced Jan. 26 and the thaws which began appearing on the following Monday, it is necessary to understand Eric Johnston's philosophy. The new head of the Economic Stabilization Agency spelled this out rather clearly in his brief appearance before Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney's Joint Congressional Economic Committee. Not much attention was paid to it then because the news was lost in the more sensational freeze orders which came a few hours later.

Eric Johnston's main thesis is that "Wage and price controls cannot be effective long." Experience in the last war backs up this statement. When people got tired of controls, they found ways to evade them. This was just as true of consumers as it was of producers and distributors. On wages it was just as true of employees as of employers. Finally the whole system broke down.

For all these reasons, Mr. Johnston says, "We must get rid of controls at the earliest possible moment."

This doesn't mean that controls are going to be lifted systematically, one or two a day, till they're all gone. What it implies is that wherever the controls are found to be unfair, wherever they seem to be causing more inflation instead of less, they will be modified.

The objective of the controls is to stabilize the purchasing power of the dollar, with a fair relationship between wages and prices. When this stability has been achieved, controls can be removed.

Before this can be done, however, the fundamental causes of the inflation must be cured, says Mr. Johnston. He says this can be done, first, by increasing production of goods and services. If there is an abundant supply of things, prices should come down automatically. Second, the supply of money must be kept in line with the quantity of production and with the quantity of goods and services available for purchase.

SINCE the start of the Korean war, Mr. Johnston points out there has been a $6 billion increase in the supply of money. There has been an $8 billion increase in credit. And the turnover of demand deposits is higher than it has been in 13 years.

To cure these causes of inflation, it will be necessary to keep controls over the private supplies of credit. And it will be necessary to balance the federal government's budget for as long as two or three years in a row. What this implies primarily is that there must be heavy federal taxation. But all these drastic measures are needed to restore confidence in the dollar.

Mr. Johnston says this is primarily the problem of the American people. It is not just the problem of some temporary bureaucrats in Washington. If the people understand the necessity for wage and price controls, they will live up to them. No controls can be effective unless people realize it's for their own best interests. But if full compliance is obtained, then, says Mr. Johnston, "we can cure the inflationary fever and return to a sound body politic."

Something of this same philosophy seems to be guiding Mr. Johnston's boss, Charles E. Wilson, head of ODM—the Office of Defense Mobilization. Back of the various orders which have gone out from the National Production Authority—limiting the use of natural rubber, copper, aluminum, nickel and tin—is not just a desire to shut down civilian production. These orders are regarded as temporary. There is hope that eventually the orders can be lifted.

Over the ten-year period beginning with 1941 only two Bruins fell victim to motor vehicles and both these were in 1943.

This And That: Speaking of special weeks the period February 4 to 10 has been designated as National Peanut Week. . . . And while we are mentioning special events we may just as well call attention to the fact that Tax Collector Ethel Baldensperger will be receiving birthday greeting cards tomorrow, as will Dr. D. A. Smith dean among members of the dentist profession in Warren. . . . Russell Templeton was elected president of the Funeral Directors Association of McKean, Warren and Elk counties at a dinner held in Kane last week; other officers include J. R. VanAiken, Ridgway, vice president, and O. M. Borden, Sheffield, treasurer; "Bill" Lutz, district governor of the association, was the guest speaker. . . . Bradford Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was host to the monthly business meeting of District 2, FOE, Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, in addition to Bradford delegates were present from St. Marys, Ridgway, Kersey, Warren and Kane. . . . A post-season basketball game has been added to the Corry Junior High school schedule with the booking of Erie Vincent for an appearance there early in March. . . . Sgt. Cecil Mathias, veteran Pennsylvania State Police officer in the Corry district, has retired to assume the position of co-ordinator of Civilian Defense at the Erie works of the General Electric. . . . The All-American Red Heads, who played here Saturday evening against the Style Shoppers are scheduled to meet the Kane Moose at the High School gym in that city tonight. . . . Roy Schneck, popular WNAE program director and announcer, demonstrated again Friday evening that he is pretty good at calling the shots when it comes to filling the air.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD LEE HOSMER

A candlelight ceremony performed at 7:30 p. m. Saturday in Bethel Evangelical United Brethren church united in marriage Lois Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Carlson, 2 Kenmore street, and Richard Lee Hosmer, 110 Pioneer street, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Hosmer, of Rixford.

The Rev. Roger D. Morey read the service against a background of palms, white pom poms and candelabra holding white tapers. Candles were placed alternately on aisle pews marked with white satin ribbons. Jean Eames was at the organ for traditional airs, including the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin," and accompanied Mary Lou Hibner, who sang "Because," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Fashioned of ivory slipper satin, the bride's gown had a fitted bodice, closing down the back with tiny buttons, and full length train. Imported French lace was used for the yoke and to trim the long sleeves in points over the wrists. Her veil of pure silk bridal illusion fell fingertip length from a headpiece made of satin and trimmed with seed pearls, and a pearl choker was her only jewelry. She carried a bouquet of white roses, centered with an orchid and showered with ivy streamers.

Her father gave her in marriage and she had as attendants her sister, Janet, as maid of honor; the bridegroom's sisters, Marilyn and Kathleen Hosmer, of Rixford, as bridesmaids. Their gowns were of satin and their bouquets were carnations. Miss Carlson in pink with blue, Miss Marilyn in yellow with pink and Miss Kathleen in green with yellow. The bride's niece, Gloria Jean Myers, North Warren, was flower girl, wearing blue satin and carrying a basket of carnations in mixed shades.

Completing the bridal party were Carl Rosendale, best man; and the ushers, Russell Nason, Warren, and James Farrell, Princeton, N. J.

The bride's mother wore black accessories and yellow roses with

MR. AND MRS. JAMES STEWART, JR.

—Stoke Studio

Bouquets of white mums and pom poms, flanked by ferns decorated the altar of St. Joseph's church Saturday morning for the wedding of Frances Lee Paternite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Paternite, 303 Morrison street, and James Stewart, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart, Sr., 2 Bauer street.

Father Arthur Leon read the nuptial mass at 10 a. m., with Mary Scialise as the vocalist. Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in white satin, styled with Chantilly lace gathered to the waistline and forming panel drapes down the side of the skirt.

The same lace was repeated around the train. Seed pearls and rhinestones decorated the tiara which held her fingertip veil of imported English illusion net, and satin ribbon bows and streamers were combined with white roses and pom poms for her bouquet. Attending her as maid of honor was her cousin, Carrie Restivo, Jamestown, N. Y., wearing pale green net over satin, and her bridesmaid was Lee De Felicio, also of Jamestown, in champagne colored satin. Each carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

The bride's brother, Peter Paternite, of Erie, attended Mr. Stewart as best man and Russell Conti, Jr., Jamestown, was the usher.

Mrs. Paternite chose black accessories with an orchid colored dress and Mrs. Stewart wore navy with pink.

The wedding dinner was served to 50 guests at the Carver Hotel and the reception for 150 was held at the K. of C. Hall at two o'clock. The white decorative scheme was repeated in the bride's table, which was centered with a five-tier cake topped by bridal figures in miniature. Guests from out of town came from Jamestown; Elyria, O.; Fisher, Pittsburgh and Sheffield. Music for the reception was played by the Christie Trio of Dunkirk, N. Y.

For a wedding trip to New York City, the bride chose a yellow gabardine suit, green accessories and a white orchid. They will return Saturday to be at home for the present at 303 Morrison street. The bride, graduate of Warren High in last June's graduating class, is employed by the New Process Company and Mr. Stewart is a Penn Furnace and Iron employee.

The bride-elect was honored with a miscellaneous shower given by her mother and Mrs. Stewart in St. Joseph's hall; also a personal shower given by Miss Restivo in Jamestown.

'After-40 Glamor' Is Rare Except in the Movie World

LATELY there has been a flood of articles on "glamor over 40"—brought on apparently by the comeback of Gloria Swanson, and the fact that a lot of the most glamorous stars of stage and screen have reached and passed the 40 milestone.

But that needn't concern us ordinary women nor beguile us into thinking that glamor after 40 can be achieved by ordinary souls. It can for the screen and stage stars, sure. But only because they can afford fabulous wardrobes, professional make-up experts, press agents to tell the world they really ARE glamorous, and because they are playing to audiences who don't see them too closely or know them too well.

The average woman can't afford to have clothes especially designed to cover up her imperfections. She hasn't any press agent. And her audience is small, consisting of a husband, children, and a few friends. All of them know her far too well to see anything glamorous about her.

IT SHOULD BE A RELIEF

BUT that really shouldn't be discouraging. For after 40 a woman ought to be smart enough to know that she is out of the glamor league and even be a bit relieved that she can relax and be herself.

If she is ever tempted to envy these over-40 glamor girls she is always reading about, a quick way of feeling pleased with her own lot in life is to stop and think how hard they must work at creating that illusion of glamor, how hard it must be for them to admit to themselves that it is just a faked illusion.

And, if without glamor, the average woman has managed to hold on to one man through the years she can feel pretty good about that. Few of the over-40 glamor girls have been able to do as much.

End of Rail Strike Not In Evidence

men, but the improvement in the situation was slight.

Nearly all the approximately 50 lines affected by the "sick" call walkout had little or no relief from the virtual tie-up of important terminal operations in about 100 of the nation's major cities.

More embargoes on shipments were imposed or extended, more industries were feeling the pinch of vanishing supplies of raw goods for processing while finished products piled up on their shipping docks; and more men were being laid off. The government embargo on most mail continued.

One of the first breaks in the walkout which began six days ago came yesterday in the strategic rail center of Atlanta. The return to work there of about 1,500 switchmen was sufficient to restore normal operations in three railroad yards and to lift embargoes by all but one line.

But while the resumption of work in Atlanta and several other points was watched for signs of a possible end of the strike, it broke out in some new spots. The New York, New Haven and Hartford, a vital link between New York and New England was forced to cancel all its service. With all rail operation serving New York virtually paralyzed, the city faced a possible shortage of fuel and such foods as fresh fruits and vegetables.

The National Mediation Board, which is conducting the negotiations, announced last night it had asked all four unions to restate today in writing the settlement formula which their members will accept.

The board had been in session until late Sunday night with representatives of the railroads and the unions—the Engineers, Conductors, Firemen and Trainmen.

Also scheduled for today was a hearing in federal district court at Chicago on a contempt of court citation against the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen as a result of a similar "sick" strike of switchmen during the Christmas rush. At that time, about 10,000 switchmen left their jobs at terminals in all parts of the country.

Above is pictured the latest addition to the Russell Fire Department, a tank truck of 800 gallons capacity, with a 500-gallon front end mount pump, delivered Saturday afternoon from the J.M.K. Machine Shop in Jamestown, N. Y. Pictured with the truck are Pat Ferrie, Russell fire chief, standing, and Kenzie Jesperson, assistant, sitting in the cab. Three hours after delivery the truck accompanied by 17 of the 120 members of the department, was answering its first call, to the home of Henry Sipple, on the Russell-Akeley dirt road, where a chimney fire was extinguished. The new truck along with another in use for some time, a 1937 Chevy with 230 gallon tank capacity and a 450 gallon pump and 1,000 feet of 2½ inch hose, gives Russell one of the best equipped departments in the county. Members of other departments in the Warren County Active Volunteer Firemen's Association will have a chance to inspect the new truck when they meet at Russell Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. ## Draft of Married Men From 19 to 26 Planned By Hershey

Hershey told the committee the proposed order, would limit dependency deferments to:

1. Men with one or more children,
2. Men with a wife and children, and
3. Men with more than one dependent. This could be, for instance, an aged parent and an invalid sister.

Hershey said he was virtually certain the interested manpower agencies would approve the order. He said he had been working closely with the secretary of labor and the secretary of defense. If they endorse it, President Truman will presumably approve it.

ownership of the tract. But there the hitch developed. It seems a state law gives the state first chance at ownership of all unclaimed land.

Warren J. Daniel, director of state land records, said he accordingly informed the department of Forests and Waters of the existence of the tract, and they took steps at once to gain possession.

Daniel said Schuman may contest the right of the state to the land if he so desires, but added that no such action has yet been filed in his office.

Meanwhile, M. F. Draemel, state secretary of forests and waters, said his department will use as much of the land as feasible for "forestry purposes."

He said drilling rights also will be put up for bidding on a royalty basis after the state gains clear title to the land. The state already has hundreds of acres of land in the Clinton-Potter county gas region under lease to drillers.

Plans For Air Raid Test Saturday

Dr. Yerg also reported on a survey of county funeral homes and the facilities provided by them.

P. C. Ostergard, assistant deputy coordinator, reported public meetings to be held in Youngsville on the evening of February 7 in the high school, and at Russell on February 15. Judge Allison D. Wade, county coordinator, Mr. Clinger, Mr. Ostergard, Prothonotary Ralph E. Sires and Sheriff L. E. Linder expect to be present at these two meetings.

William Hill, chief air warden for the borough, announced that captains for each ward have been selected and that these captains are now in the process of selecting subordinate personnel to serve in each district and block.

to qualify for the capital gains tax in place of straight income tax.

2. Corporation income taxes—An increase of eight percentage points in normal income tax for corporations, adding $8 in tax to each $100 of profit.

This would lift the rate from 25 to 33 per cent on corporations with profits below $25,000, and from 47 to 55 per cent on those with higher profits.

3. Excise taxes—on autos, lift the rate from seven to 20 per cent of the manufacturer's price to raise $685,000,000 a year in revenue.

On refrigerators, television sets, radios, phonographs, electric, gas and oil appliances, "and other consumer durables"—raise the tax from 10 per cent to 25 per cent of the manufacturer's price, to raise $425,000,000 (M) in revenue.

On distilled spirits—raise the rate from $9 to $12 a gallon, (from $1.80 to $2.40 on a standard, fifth-of-a-gallon bottle of 100 proof whiskey.)

On beer—raise the tax from $8 to $12 a barrel (31 gallons). That would raise the tax from about 2.5 to 3.8 cents on a 12-ounce bottle.

The graduated rates on wines would be lifted also to make the total increase in revenue from alcoholic beverage taxes come to $710,000,000.

The cigarette tax would be jumped from 7 to 10 cents a pack and the graduated rates on cigars would be boosted to add $525,000,000 to the revenue from tobacco taxes.

The gasoline tax would be doubled—from a federal levy of 1½ cents a gallon to three cents. This was calculated to add $580,000,000 in revenue from the federal gasoline tax.

Largest U. N. Tank Force of Korean War

East of the main Suwon-Seoul road, three hit-run spearheads stabbed into Chinese defenses in the Tanchon valley. The most daring of these forays was by task force Fisher, which wiped out the Red massing point of Unjung.

Two other columns linked up at Punjon after wheeling eastward out of the Tanchon valley. U. S. and Puerto Rican infantrymen gained one mile and a half on the Suwon-Kumyangsang front in this action.

The Eighth Army estimated that total Red casualties along the front and in rear areas from Jan. 25 through Friday were 34,359, of whom 20,615 were killed. The announcement said 12,856 were wounded and 888 were captured.

Bill Gordon's "Partner" ...

Your grocer, Bill Gordon, has a "partner" who is very valuable to him, and Bill's business would suffer if his "partner" ever failed him. It never has. You see, Bill's partner is his daily newspaper. It brings him news—it tells his customers about the food and bargains he has for them. His daily newspaper lets him know, in a brief but thorough manner, what his customers are thinking . . . saying . . . doing. It serves him in many other ways, too. In bringing Bill Gordon the news of his community, nation and the world, his newspaper doesn't do a helter-skelter job. It sifts and resists the news so he won't have to do it himself. It brings him information by leaders in every field . . . it tells him who won the ball game. In its editorial columns it discusses problems, exposes wrongs and works for him and his community every day in the year.

Famed Red Head Five Defeated By Style Shoppers In Overtime

Warren Style Shop cagers edged out famous girls basketball club, the Red Heads, 42-38, in a two-minute overtime period before a capacity crowd at Beauty gym last Tuesday night. With three seconds to go, the Stylists had the lead 38-36, until Betty Bradshaw, center for the Red Heads, took one in to tie things up 38-38.

Going into the overtime Red Kerchner and Ed Lindberg scored to give Warren a four point victory, while the Red Heads were unable to score.

Scoring was quite evenly divided. George Hesch and Kerchner gave Warren nine each for the Style Shop, and Bonnie Buell (No. 1) of the Arkansas Glamour Girl, hitting for 11 counters.

Sport fans present found Coach Mack Olson's team pleasing to watch, and enjoyed the laughs, ticks, as well as the good basketball featured by the girls.

Stud Simpson, 6-6 center on the Style Shop five, had the girls falling all over him, as they proved superior in holding him to a mere four points. Official Tony Tomassoni was also the victim of the feminine tactics, and poor little George "Ace" Hesch really turned red when accused of pinching Bonnie Buell.

The Red Heads demonstrated how the under the legs dribble is done and also demonstrated the world famous "piggy back" play.

Coach Olson stated that his team now has a 50 per cent record this season and that Saturday night's loss broke a seven game winning streak. Tonight the team is scheduled to play the Kane Moose on the Hilltop.

Titusville and Meadville Share Lead in Section 2 League Race

Titusville and Meadville today share the lead in the Section 2 scholastic basketball campaign as the result of wins Friday night.

The zooming Rockets from Titusville downed the Warren Dragons, 51-41, in a game played on the Titusville court. The defeat completely eliminated any chance Warren might have at the crown this year, but the Massmen still will have plenty to say about deciding the final winner.

Meadville nipped Oil City, last year's champions, by a 48-45 count in a contest that was decided on firing from the foul line.

The section 2 standings:

Meadville	4	1	.800
Titusville	4	1	.800
Oil City	3	2	.600
Warren	1	4	.200
Franklin	0	4	.000

Titusville piled up a 33-17 lead in the first half, but the Dragons went to work in the back stretch and outpointed the home club, 24 to 18.

The Gustafson-Dillon-Buser combination accounted for 38 of the winners points, but Mel Grosch counted 17 points for high total for the night. Paul Gordon, Warren guard, added 12 more.

Warren's next game will be played Friday night at Beauty court with Meadville as the opponent. This will be a Sect. 2 game.

Bo McMillin Is Paid for Not Running a Popularity Contest

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—As in the case of Bernie Bierman at Minnesota, after all these years the directors of the Detroit Lions found out that Alvin Nugent McMillin couldn't coach football.

Wesley Fesler going to Minnesota after announcing that he was through with coaching is the worst rap the Ohio State volives have taken yet, by the way.

Fesler left a remarkable squad behind him, with a small army of high-grade replacements coming up. He was that happy to get away from Columbus.

Getting back to Bo McMillin, for one of such prominence his passing from the picture attracted surprisingly little notice.

This was in a large part due to McMillin's old Kentucky home pal, Albert Benjamin Chandler, getting the heaveho the same night. McMillin of Centre-opposed Chandler of Transylvania in football, basketball and baseball in their college days.

Now McMillin is being paid $65,000 for not running a popularity contest in Detroit.

And Happy Chandler is getting an equal amount for keeping his big mouth shut and not being the commissioner of baseball.

A CLUB source says having McMillin as both head coach and general manager simply didn't work out, although Paul Brown has done an excellent job of it in Cleveland.

"So stringent was McMillin in contractual deals, and subsequent expenditures, that the confidence he expected of his players became simple talking matters among them," says the source.

This is the same McMillin whom Indiana told he could stick around until the retirement age of 70. McMillin, now 55, five years ago was the coach-of-the-year, when the Hoosiers won nine and tied one.

McMillin inherited a club that had long lost money. In his first year, the outfit dropped $93,000, in his second, $112,000.

The Lions broke even last trip, both on the field and at the bucks office, and were rearing along playing highly attractive ball at the finish.

Johnny Greene alone remains of the squad McMillin took over.

"There are two or three whiners on every club," explains McMillin, who is open for an inviting bid. "And you must have discipline."

So Bo McMillin will pick up $2700 each month for the next 24 months for not pouring tea for the Lions.

It's nice work if you can get it.

Youngsville Eagles fattened their Upper Allegheny League average Friday night at Youngsville, by a comparatively easy victory over Tionesta in a game marked by 26 of the points being scored on fouls. Each team lost two men via the foul route. The final score was 48 to 39.

Youngsville scored 17 field goals and hit for 14 out of 22 tries from the free throw line. Tionesta, scoring 13 goals, hit 13 free points out of 13 tries.

Jack Haight, Eagle center was high with 16 points, followed closely by Pierson with 15. Por Tionesta, Zuendel was the big gun with 12 before leaving the game on fouls. In addition to Zuendel, Carlson, Warner and Pierson were dumped on the side lines.

Youngsville girls lost another close one in the final seconds, the score being 23 to 22. For Tionesta, Blum hit for 17 points. For Youngsville, Dailey was high with 13.

Youngsville and Sheffield will tangle at Sheffield in Friday night's game.

Molly picked up the thermometer, read it, then looked at Patricia in alarm. But the redhead, smiling smugly, had pulled a magazine out from under her pillows and was idly turning the pages.

"You can tell that to Peter O'Malley," she said. "But no, I'm taking the day down to him, so he can read it himself. Go ahead. Take it."

Molly put the thermometer back on the table. "I don't know what you're up to, Pat. And it's none of my business if you want to malingering, though I do think it's silly. And inconsiderate, under the circumstances. She hesitated before she added:

VOYAGE TO EDEN

By Bennie C. Hall

Chapter 25
ELSIE grinned her approval. They went away and she turned the conversation into other channels. "I guess you heard about Patricia Hasbrook pulling a fast one last night," she said.

Molly shook her head. "No, I haven't seen Pat for a couple of days. I saw her the other night when I went up to dance for a little while, and she seemed all right. In fact, I've never seen her any gay."

"Well, she did. Hysterics. Doc had to drop everything and go up. If you ask me she's soured on her completely, and she's only wasting her time calling him back. You can't blame him either. No man's going to put up with that cat-and-mouse nonsense forever. Doc's not the mouse type."

Elsie's comments were brought to an abrupt end by the arrival of Miss Meacham, the head nurse. She had a pleasant good morning to Elsie and motioned Molly aside.

"I have a little errand for you, my dear," she said in her brisk, efficient voice. "I'd like for you to go up and check on Miss Hasbrook. Take her temperature, see if she's comfortable, and report back to me. It's just a formality. She's sent for Doctor O'Malley, but he's up in the isolation ward and I don't want to disturb him."

It was the last thing in the world Molly wanted to do, but to refuse Miss Meacham was unthinkable. No nurse worth her salt—or who valued her future—ever refused to take orders from a head nurse. Nevertheless, she made a feeble protest.

"Must I? I didn't know she was sick. She looked the picture of health when I saw her last."

Miss Meacham looked at her sharply. Then she said a strange thing for a woman who was normally the soul of discretion. Her words, in fact, were reminiscent of the ones Elsie had used only a few days ago.

"She's not sick," Miss Meacham said. "There's not a thing wrong with that girl that a good old-fashioned larping wouldn't cure. I'm just in a mood to give it to her, too. That's why I'm sending you instead of going myself."

With that, she thrust a thermometer case into Molly's hand and hurried away.

Elsie, who had made it her business to overhear the conversation, winked and stepped over near Molly. "See? It's just like I told you, she's kidding the girl. It doesn't envy you, chickadee. I'd sooner deal with a whole ship-load of D.P.'s than one cantankerous Hasbrook, male or female. I'm surprised at Meacham for passing the buck. Gee, I wish I had the chance to light into La Hasbrook. I wouldn't leave so much as a greasy spot. The best will probably light into you with both feet, on account of you're down here working with Doc."

"I'm not worried about that," Molly said. "All I have to do is take her temperature and see if she's comfortable. It's just a formality and it's going to be darn brief."

She made her way up to Patricia's stateroom, feeling somewhat resentful and put upon. It didn't seem fair that Miss Meacham should be sending her instead of one of the regular nurses—or even going herself.

She supposed that she, being Bert's fiancée and Patricia's prospective sister-in-law, would be expected to take sides with the girl, to commiserate, and she could think of nothing she wanted to do less. She was beginning to feel sorry for Peter O'Malley, and to respect him too. However, her mercenary plans for the future might be, he was doing a wonderful job with the unfortunate D.P.'s. He was allowing nothing—even Patricia's shenanigans—to interfere with his work. Evidently Peter O'Malley, the doctor, was an entirely different person from Peter O'Malley, the man.

Molly knocked on Patricia's door several times before there was a muffled invitation to enter. Patricia was lying in her berth, moaning softly, and completely covered except for her face and shining red hair. She opened her eyes, saw Molly, stopped moaning and set up a gasp. "What are you doing here? Get out! Get out! Get out!" she said, her face was carefully made up and that she was fully dressed. She looked petulant, a little angry, but definitely not sick.

"Oh, so it's you, Molly," she said crossly. "It was Peter I sent for."

"Yes, I know," Molly, unsure of what attitude she should take, a little embarrassed for Patricia, who was obviously just sulking, assumed the bristly smiling role of a professional nurse.

"It was Peter I sent for," Patricia repeated petulantly. "I don't know why you should come. Where's Peter?"

Molly, still trying to be professionally impersonal, smiled at her. "He's tied up in the contagion ward. We've got measles now, along with the rest. Some of the people were really hospital cases when they came aboard."

Molly paused on that thought, realizing that her last remarks had slipped out, almost without her volition. In trying to convince Pat, she had stumbled upon the truth regarding herself. She had been lost, trying to fit herself in to a niche where she didn't belong, groping around in a sea of false values, but now she had found herself.

"Well, I don't intend to get used to it," Pat announced firmly. "I'm not the type to go in for nursing, even as a hobby. Sick people always did get me down. And I'm certainly not the type to sit around twiddling my thumbs, waiting for a man who's never around when you want him. There's no fun in that."

Molly, realizing that Patricia was in no mood to be convinced, was silent. She wondered just what Patricia proposed to do about the situation, but refrained from asking.

"At first I thought things would be different when Peter got in. I thought he'd be a real boss. He'd be his own boss," Patricia went on to say. "I was all set to wheedle Father into backing him. But Peter's so stubborn I'm not at all sure he'd stand for it. He's got the crazy idea he wants to do it all himself, starting from scratch."

Patricia's lips curled petulantly. "I didn't expect you to agree with me," she said. "Just because you know a little about nursing, you like to feel it's all-important. You're just like Peter, thinking only of the sick and their immediate needs—and sold on your own importance. You don't see my side at all."

"No, I don't. Of course, I know you can't possibly be serious, but..."

"I never was more serious," Patricia announced firmly. "Either Peter gives up medicine, or I give him up."

"Well," Molly thought. "Now I've seen everything, heard everything. Aloud, she said: 'I still can't believe you're serious. Pat. At least I don't think you realize what you'd be asking of Peter. He's spent years preparing himself for a medical career. It's his life. I didn't think...'"

"What about me and my life?" Patricia cut in.

Molly ignored that, continuing where she had left off. "I didn't think he took it seriously at first, but I was wrong. I've seen him at work. Just as Elsie said, he loves his work and his patients—no matter who they are."

"Exactly," Patricia said.

"Have you told him about your—er—plan?" Molly, to her own surprise, held her breath while she waited for the answer.

Patricia made a sour face, then nodded her head reluctantly. "That's what all the to-do was about last night," she confessed. "I suggested it and he hit the ceiling."

Molly, assuring herself that her interest was purely clinical and had nothing to do with Peter O'Malley himself, breathed freely again.

"Yes, he hit the ceiling," Patricia repeated. "So naturally I got mad too. A little more and I'd have forgotten myself and slapped him again. I did that once, and I never made a more ghastly mistake."

State Industrial Activity Reaches Peak In December

State College.—(P)—Industrial activity in Pennsylvania during December reached the highest level on record for that month, a survey disclosed today.

The Pennsylvania State College Bureau of Business Research reported the activity index stood at 210, a gain of 31 points over December, 1949.

However, the survey showed the activity was a point lower than November.

Activity for 1950 averaged 199, a new high and an increase of 12 per cent from 1949, employee year.

The index uses the years 1935-39 as 100 and is based on industrial power sales, employee hours in manufacturing, bank deposits, postal receipts, telephone and department store sales reached an all-time high during December.

Building contracts in December reached an all-time high. Steel plants ran at 96.7 per cent of capacity, according to the report and set a new December record for output.

Factory employment was up 11 per cent from 1949, employee hours 16 per cent and payrolls 28 per cent. Gains in activity were larger in the durable goods industries than in the non-durable industries.

The cost of living soared to an all-time record of 178.1 for December. It represented a rise of 6 per cent over the previous year and 1.6 per cent over November.

The coal industry failed to reflect the otherwise high industrial activity, the report shows. Although both types of coal production were above 1949, bituminous coal production was the lowest since 1938 and anthracite output the lowest for any similar period for which the bureau has records.

Failure of light industries to show expansion prevented the factory employment and employee hours indices from reaching the 1947 record figures, the report showed.

FARM NOTES

Pennsylvania farms are now valued 90 per cent higher than during the prewar average valuation from 1935-39.

The average increase in farm values for the entire nation has amounted to 116 per cent.

Farm real estate dealers reported in a federal-state survey that percentage increases in prices was about the same for good, average and poor farms during the past six months.

The rate of sales during the year ended last March declined for the third consecutive year. Dealer reports in October indicated a substantial increase in the number of inquiries to buy farms.

The survey also stated that land values are expected to show continued strength during the coming year. It added that dealers expect the sales price of land to increase.

Keystone hens chalked up a new record production of 3,371,000,000 eggs during 1950.

Enough eggs were laid by Pennsylvania hens and pullets last year to provide almost 27 dozen for each man, woman and child in the state.

The commonwealth ranked third in egg production among all states in 1949 and is expected to retain this ranking for 1950.

LINCOLN AND GETTYSBURG

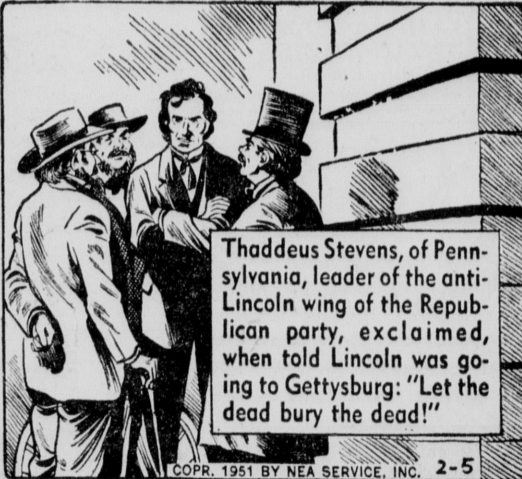

By RALPH LANE

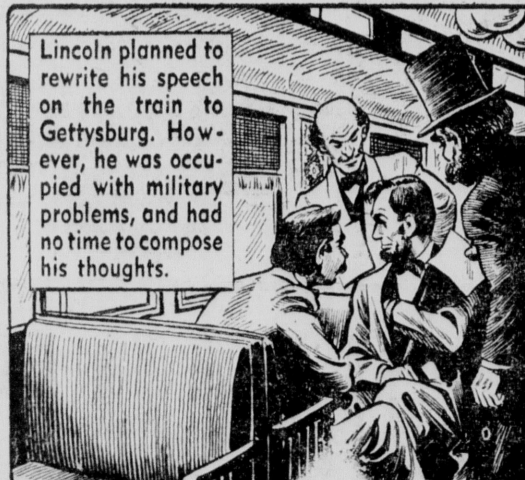

Crowds and notables from all over the North converged on Gettysburg Nov. 19, 1863, for the dedication of the National Soldiers' Cemetery.

President Lincoln left Washington for Gettysburg Nov. 18. He was upset because his best friend, his little boy, Tad, lay ill in the White House.

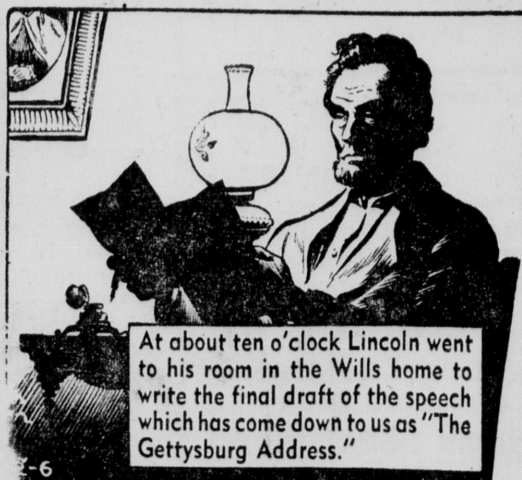

Thaddeus Stevens, of Pennsylvania, leader of the anti-Lincoln wing of the Republican party, exclaimed, when told Lincoln was going to Gettysburg: "Let the dead bury the dead!"

Lincoln planned to rewrite his speech on the train to Gettysburg. However, he was occupied with military problems, and had no time to compose his thoughts.

In Gettysburg, the President was a guest of Chairman Wills of the Cemetery Committee. Serenaders asked Lincoln to speak. He said: "In my position, it is important that I should not say foolish things." A voice cried: "If you can help it!"

At about ten o'clock Lincoln went to his room in the Wills home to write the final draft of the speech which has come down to us as "The Gettysburg Address."
